Entries are being received at the Norwich roque grounds for those who will enter a local tournament to begin next Monday for the Norwich roque cup, which is now held by Tracy Rudd. It is expected that the tournament will run for about a week, as each player is to play two games with every other one. Entries already received for the local tournament are Frank H. Foss, Frederick Symington, J. O. D. Clark, Louis Stockwell and Woodcut Sullivan. Mr. Foss is already showing form that indicates he will be a worthy representative of this city among the big fellows and a prominent contender for the national championship. In a game against Woodcut Sullivan on Thursday afternoon, he made the circuit with both balls in five turns, not allowing Sullivan a shot and shutting him out without a wicket.

The remains of Henry Ogden Canfield were laid at rest Wednesday afternoon in Mount Carmel cemetery, Bridgeport, with all the impressive-ness of the rituals of the various Masonic bodies of which he was a member and attended by a large number of friends, relatives and former business associates. The services were held at his home, 2999 North avenue, at 3 o'clock, and were conducted by Rev. H. L. Lewis of the St. John's church. At the grave the rituals of the Corinthian lodge, Jerusalem chapter, Jerusalem council, Lafayette consistory, and the Grand Lodge of the Knights Templar, of all of which he had been an officer, were exemplified. Many he claims were his friends, and he was a member of the latter being D. K. Hubbard, who was cordially congratulated on getting up again after a spell of poor health.

In the afternoon Mr. Brown gave a much appreciated lecture on his recent trip to Panama, which he had made with drawings. The picnicers returned by the 7 o'clock evening train.

SODDEN DEATH OF THOMAS F. RYAN

Stricken With Heart Disease in Winthrop House, New London—Formerly Bartender in this City—Thought at First to be Result of Fall.

About 10 o'clock Thursday night the death of Thomas F. Ryan occurred at the Winthrop house in New London, from heart disease. It was sudden, he having been about the city all day. With a party of friends he was in the cafe of the hotel during the evening, and there arose an argument over some matter under discussion. One of the party pushed Mr. Ryan, after which he walked about for a few minutes, and then went on to the hotel office, where he dropped dead. There was plenty of excitement then for a few minutes, and the police were called. Two of the men in the party until Medical Examiner Lee arrived, owing to the circumstances which had transpired a few minutes previous.

Upon examination by the medical examiner it was determined that the death was the result of heart disease, with which he had been troubled for some time. Having determined that his death was from natural causes, the two men held were released. There was no mark of violence on the body and the push which took place a few minutes before his death came at an unfortunate time, so as to give an impression that it caused his death.

Mr. Ryan was about 37 years of age and was formerly a bartender in this city at the Wauregan house, where he was bartender. He was succeeded by Frank Shea, since which he has been at New London, being engaged in the same business. He was well known here, and his many friends will regret to learn of his death. His home was in New Haven, where he had two sisters and a brother.

YARDMEN LEAVE THE CENTRAL VERMONT.

Passenger and Freight Trains Are Moving—Wreck at Stafford.

The Central Vermont road in New London was left without a yardman Thursday when Bernard A. Wynn, yardmaster, and George Fisher, night yardman, were called out for duty. Mr. Wynn was called out by the Brotherhood of Railway Conductors, by which it is expected he will be laid on duty since the strike went into effect, discharging his own duties but leaving the yardmaster's work to his own. Thursday morning, however, he was called out and will enter the national tournament, which takes place here the third week in August.

Entries already received for the local tournament are Frank H. Foss, Frederick Symington, J. O. D. Clark, Louis Stockwell and Woodcut Sullivan. Mr. Foss is already showing form that indicates he will be a worthy representative of this city among the big fellows and a prominent contender for the national championship. In a game against Woodcut Sullivan on Thursday afternoon, he made the circuit with both balls in five turns, not allowing Sullivan a shot and shutting him out without a wicket.

Several freight breakers reported in New London Wednesday night, two of whom were sent to the Winthrop house to take care of duty. Others are remaining awaiting orders to report and are assigned to work on the line of the company is able to procure all the men it requires, and although many of the breakers are new to the work, others are quickly sent to take their places.

Passenger trains are being run into and out of the city without much difficulty and with one or two exceptions the trains are making good time. A freight train that left the East New London yards Wednesday came to a stop at the junction of the road at Stafford with a train in the yards there. One car went off an embankment and was badly damaged. No one was hurt.

A freight train of several cars was being run into the city on Thursday when the northbound freight came in to the yard. The front freight was backing up and the rear freight came around the curve and before the engineer, who was on the train in front, the collision occurred. The impact threw one of the cars into the air and it fell on the side of the engine was smashed.

A slight accident occurred at Stafford on Thursday. A green hand threw a switch while the tender of the engine was backing up and the engine was thrown off the track. Some delay was caused by the accident, which was not serious, however.
